

Where to Eat Brunch This Weekend: Miss B's Coconut Club

By Darlene Horn | July 8, 2016By Darlene Horn | July 8, 2016

Photo by: Darlene Horn

The beach is an essential part of a successful San Diego summer, and while staking your claim in the sand early is one way to strategize your day, might we suggest having brunch at Miss B's Coconut Club in Mission Beach as another?

The Details: This beachside haven originally caught our attention with its impressive lineup of tiki cocktails, but its Caribbean-influenced food menu proves to be equally appealing. Executive chef Christina Pancheri puts a tropical twist in every dish. Early morning starters get a lift from coconut in the açai granola bowl ($8), Monte Cristo ($12), jerk chicken and waffle ($14) and French toast ($10). If you venture off the sweet path, you'll want to try worthy items like the restaurant's Cubano Benedict ($13; pictured) — a reimagined Cubano sandwich that's made for brunch. Served with slices of Duroc ham, house-spiced mustard, poached eggs and a “jerk” Hollandaise, the dish shines with the tender pulled pork and freshly baked kolache toast sourced from neighboring Olive Cafe. You'll find the pulled pork and subtly sweet kolache bread showing up in other dishes later the in day, but why wait for lunch or dinner when you can have both for breakfast?

Know This: Brunch is served every day, and while posted hours have the restaurant opening at 10 AM, it's been known to open as early as 8 AM on the weekends to accommodate crowds. Reservations are accepted but not required. Parking in the area is notoriously tight so be prepared to walk several blocks.

3704 Mission Blvd.; 858-381-0588